

HEY PRESTO...HERE'S A QUALITY SHED FOR YOUR RV

For many years campervan and motorhome owners have been looking for an affordable, robust 'parking' roof for their precious mobile holiday home.

Now, thanks to Presto Sheds, there is a quality, quick-build shed for your motorhome or caravan (or boat, or bloke shed, or firewood, or work shelter, or storage or anything).

With a fair bit of money tied up in your home away from home, the last thing you want to do is a lot of maintenance due to weather exposure or see it deteriorate when it's parked up, says Harmen Heesen, of TechniPharm, who manufacture Presto Sheds.

While there are other types of cover available, most are either cheap and nasty or over the top expensive for the purpose.

"Presto sheds are a great solution," says Harmen, "they are purpose-built, quick and easy to erect, yet strong and durable. Our clever 'slip and fit' modular frame system of 75 x 50

RHS, pre-galvanized in either standard or HD steel wall thickness ensure this shed will last and last."

Presto sheds come as a kitset of various lengths and width and roof heights from 2.5 metres to over 4 metres. The base kitset can be extended to whatever length you need.

Max width is 6 metres, but can be as narrow as 2 metres. Height extensions can be in increments of 400mm over and above the standard 2400mm and special customised options are also available.

Roofing is either in Coloursteel or Zinkalume, or if you want a bit of light you can add a few sheets of clear light.

"Owners around NZ love their Presto shed and find the cover works brilliantly. A clever tip is that many order the Presto shed a bit wider than needed so they can also open the vehicle doors while prepping the vehicle for their next trip or use one side to store some gear," says Harmen.
